This Week's News...

We were delighted to welcome Richard Hunter, our Senior Advisor from the Local Authority, into the school. Richard spent two days in class lessons and looking at the children's books. His main comments were on the change in the classrooms and learning from the past year, the quality of the children's learning, the huge impact of the Literacy Tree in the children's English books and on how excited the children were about their learning in general. We thank all our wonderful teachers who have made this happen.

Klee Class took part in a Junior Citizenship Day. They practised using public transport, talked about online safety, learned about how to be safe around dogs and other relevant activities, which are all part of the work preparing them for secondary school.

Congratulations to our Tag Rugby team who reached the quarterfinals in a Southwark Tag Rugby Festival.

Resilience work continues across the school: In Reception, we discussed different scenarios that might happen at school. For example: 'What should you do if...?' The children shared their solution with the class.

6Banksy class played games where they had to show resilience and teamwork. They said, "To get the hoop round fast we had to not talk and stay focused on what we were doing. We had to move our arms up or down to help the next person pass the hoop around their body." "We kept falling over if a team member was silly or we untangled ourselves too fast. When we worked together, did it slower it worked much better"
