This Week's News...

This week has been full of excitement at SJSC with the reading quest reaching its third stage, World Book Day and Electric Pedals lighting up the playground today.

Throughout the week the excitement of books, reading, quests and costumes has been felt throughout the school and yesterday there was so much laughter, joy and enthusiasm everywhere. What an amazing day; so many exciting and creative costumes linked to books past and present.

Today we had the energy of Electric Pedals in the playground hosting workshops and a lunchtime disco.

Next week our playground work starts, we can't wait to see the changes – another step in making the playground an even better, more natural place to be. Watch this space...

Have a good weekend.

DAY

Thank you to everyone for the huge efforts on World Book Day. It was an amazing day and a great celebration of reading. We had a fashion show and a workshop in year one from DK Books. Thank you to Paula – George and Henry’s Mum for organising this.

Quest Three was also launched with each class challenged to create their own inspiring book corner.

Look on Twitter and the next page for some of the World Book Day photos.

#REDNOSEDAY

To fundraise this year we are inviting the children to dress up in their wackiest red clothes on Friday 15th March in exchange for a voluntary contribution of £1. We will also be selling red noses and KS1 can enter a red nose competition to design a red nose and KS2 the comic relief quiz.

Attendance

It is very important that children attend school every day.
This week, well done to KUSAMA class.

Playground Development

We are extremely excited that the time has finally arrived for our playground project to begin. On Monday, contractors will begin their site set up and will work over the subsequent two weeks to build the children a new trim trail area and a beautiful multi-purpose amphitheatre. We are sure the children will be fascinated by the works and will eagerly watch with anticipation.

We thank our PTFA and the Southwark Diocesan Board of Education for their very generous funding to make this happen.

Today Electric Pedals joined us and hosted energy workshops for years 3 and 4. The children found out how much energy they needed to generate by pedalling to boil a small amount of water. We also had a Year One disco all powered by human energy. Thank you to Electric Pedals and Colin, Lexie’s Dad, for organising this.
