Friday 12th February 2021

Dear Parents,

This morning we hosted our celebration assemblies. It was wonderful to hear every teacher talking about how proud they are of their classes and how amazing their children are, and we couldn't agree more.

This isn't the easiest of times for many, but we would like to end this half term on a huge positive, highlighting all of the amazing achievements of all in our community. Everyone has done an amazing job - well done to the children, parents and staff for your efforts, smiles and spirit.

Government Announcements

On Monday 22nd February, the Government are expected to announce the timetable for school reopening so we will be watching and hoping that we can all be together again soon. In the meantime, all of the latest updates can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/coronavirus>

Supporting Your Child During a Pandemic – Parent Café

This week's parents' cafe, led by our educational psychologists Dr Anna Surr and Dr Rosie Freedman, focused on 'Supporting your child during a pandemic'.

Topics covered were: talking to your child about coronavirus, strategies to support your child's anxiety at home, strategies to support your child's well-being and home-schooling strategies. There was also an opportunity for families to ask our educational psychologists questions.

If you missed the session and would like further information, the session slides are available on our website via this link: <http://www.stjohnsandstclements.org/parents/parents-cafe.php> or for a limited time the whole session is available here. Passcode: Ew5#ssb+

If you have any further questions for our educational psychologists regarding this session, please email our SENCO, Natalie McIntosh: natalie.mcintosh@sjsc.southwark.sch.uk

It has been brilliant to see so many of you enthusiastically join in our 'All you need is love' project. We are so impressed with the singing being sent through and it is heart-warming to see so many SJSC 'heart art' appearing in windows spreading the love around to others.
